Six Protective Factors

All strong families and communities share a set of common factors that protect children and promote their healthy development. By cultivating these factors, healthy communities and families can better protect children, especially in times of stress. These are the key elements of what is being called the strengthening families and protective factors framework:

- ♥ Knowledge of parenting and child development
- ♥ Nurturing and attachment
- ♥ Parental resilience
- ♥ Social and emotional competence
- ♥ Concrete support in times of need
- ♥ Social connections

United Way, supporting CAPA for 25+ years.

As we reflect back on 2014, we are reminded of CAPA's mission, which is to break the destructive cycle of child abuse by equipping parents, children and their caregivers with necessary skills, knowledge and values. Throughout this year the amazing CAPA staff, the board of directors and numerous volunteers have worked tirelessly to ensure a successful year for this organization.

From community awareness, to programmatic outreach, to the children served in the Open Arms Shelter, to the donations received into CAPA's Closet, CAPA has made a lasting and positive impact on the Beaufort community in 2014.

In December of this last year we ended an era with the retirement of an amazing individual, who through her unwavering dedication to CAPA has made this organization what it is today. Although no longer in the position of Executive Director, Susan Cato is the reason that many of our programs, volunteers, donors and relationships have been sustained throughout the years. In her place stepped Christina Wilson as our new executive director, who comes to CAPA with the same level of passion and dedication to our mission that Susan has held for so many years.

It has truly been an honor and a privilege to serve as the president of the 2014 Board of Directors. I will cherish this experience and will continue to pledge my commitment to the mission of this amazing organization.

Dawn Freeman

Board President

Change can be scary. Change can be exhilarating. Sometimes it requires us to move backward before we can move forward. But mostly, change is just, well change. CAPA has experienced lots of change in the past year. The most obvious example of this is the retirement of Susan Cato and the hiring of her successor (I use successor because replacement is just not plausible). Susan's dedication to this organization and to our community's most vulnerable population, its abused and neglected children, is unmatched. From working out of her trunk on a part time basis in 1985 to heading a thriving nonprofit touching tens of thousands of lives annually, Susan took CAPA and changed it into what it is today. She helped change the paradigm around abuse and neglect. She helped change lives, more than 2,100 just in the shelter alone, one child at a time. And whenever change was needed to further CAPA's mission, she was the first to step up and lead the way for others to follow.

In 2014, CAPA's board approved another change, implementing a multi-faceted trauma program. Grants have been written and while we wait for those decisions, we are anxious to start attacking abuse and neglect with a multi-generational approach. By bridging the generations we are not just helping to heal a child, we are healing a family!

If I haven't met you, I would love to! My door is always open. I have met so many people in the past few months that have made my personal change as painless as possible. I offer my heartfelt thank you to every single supporter, donor, staff member, grant maker, business partner and beyond that helps make what we do possible. Together, we can change lives, one child, one family, at a time.

Holding CAPA in my heart and hands,

Christina Wilson

Executive Director

OPEN ARMS SHELTER

Art by shelter resident, age 7

In 2014, the Open Arms Shelter welcomed 69 children, bringing us to 2,158 children served since opening in 1985. CAPA provided a total of 4,632 days of care and averaged 12.69 residents per day.

Sadly, the shelter had no available beds for an additional 69 children. Renovations are under way to increase our capacity from 15 to 18 beds.

Thanks to the generous support of the Society of Fire Protection Engineers Central Savannah River Area Chapter (SFPE), Foster Engineering & Consulting, LLC and Lifeguard Fire Protection, and Fire Chief Sammy Negron, the shelter is being retrofitted with a sprinkler system. Additional funding is through a Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) grant administered by the South Carolina Department of Public Safety. Work will be completed in first quarter 2015.

♥ All loved by CAPA ♥

Thank you for being my mother especially today when I looked at your face when you came to pick me up it made me feel loved and cared for in a long time cause to me I can hear someone say they love me but I've been fooled so much so now you have to keep showing me and I learn to trust because of you I hope I have effected you as much as you effected me

OUTREACH

29 Pack 'n Plays Distributed

Portable playards, along with safe sleep education, are distributed to needy families referred to CAPA from partner agencies with home visitation programs. In 2014, CAPA was given the green light to increase our service area.. Thanks to funding from Hargray's Caring Coins, Jasper residents will begin the program in January 2015.

144 Reporters Educated

In SC, certain occupations are required by law to report child abuse and neglect. CAPA offers professional educational training, at no charge, to area business and organizations with mandated employees and volunteers.

271 local children

Received gifts through CAPA's Angel Tree program.

47 parents educated in Triple P

The Positive Parenting Program (Triple P) is an eight session program designed to improve parenting skills and lead to age appropriate nurturing behaviors, positive discipline strategies and increased access to support systems. Any parent or grandparent is welcome to enroll.

128 Parents

CAPA's facilitator brings modified Triple P to incarcerated parents at the Beaufort County Detention Center. The program helps participants recognize their parental responsibilities and learn to have healthy relationships with their children. Parents are encouraged to enroll in the full Triple P after their release.

19 Years of KidFest

KidFest celebrates Child Abuse Prevention Month and the Month of the Military Child. CAPA has served on the leadership council since the beginning. 2014 had the largest vendor turnout on record and over 9,000 attendees. The free event is designed to introduce children and their families to local community services.

28 Members

Since 2001, PS We Love You, CAPA's parent support group, has met bi-weekly to discuss their parenting successes and challenges. Members hold food drives for the shelter and their time at CAPA fundraising events.

6,423 elementary students

April, CAPA's Outreach Specialist, presents a best-practice personal safety program to first, third and fifth grade students in Beaufort County. The age-appropriate lessons are designed to build upon one another, reinforcing the abuse awareness and prevention messages that empower children.

46 Parents Served

CAPA's Triple P facilitator presents the program to parents of first time juvenile offenders in the Beaufort County Sheriff's DAPP program.
